After serving as interim for several weeks

Kenya Martin officially named Elba Elementary School principal

The Elba Board of Education met Tuesday evening, June 29, for the regular monthly board meeting, and the group voted affirm a new principal for the elementary school.

Earlier in the month, the board had accepted a resignation from Debra Strickland Fincher as principal of the elementary school. At that time, Superintendent Chris Moseley said elementary counselor Kenya Martin would be the interim principal.

Last Tuesday evening, Moseley and the board took the interim title away from Martin by officially naming her principal of Elba Elementary School. Martin is an alumnus of Elba City Schools.

Once Martin had been named principal, Moseley said the school would begin a search for a new elementary school counselor to replace Martin at that position.

During the meeting, the board affirmed several other personnel matters recommended by the superintendent.

A resignation was accepted from EES teacher Amy Woodham. She had accepted a job with another local school system.

Eight new hires were approved for the elementary school, including: Natasha Chalker, teacher; Emily Kilcrease, teacher; DeReatha Tolle, teacher; Alicia Moore, teacher; Jessica Peecken, teacher; Stacey Mitchell, aide; Kristin Hanson, aide; and Maci Ellis, aide.

Further, two employee transfers were approved for EES. Pastee Levens will move from instructional aide to ISS, and Claire Lambert will move from kindergarten teacher to special education teacher.

Antonio Smith, age 47, and Willie Chism, age 42, were charged with multiple charges involving illegal drug activity including possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance, and they were taken into custody.

Both have since been released from the Coffee County Jail on bond.

ELBA DELIVERS MUSIC, FIREWORKS AND MORE for 4th of July weekend celebration.The Let Freedom Ring patriotic celebration in honor of Independence Day held annually in Elba was a huge success this year! Last year, the event was a fireworks only affair, but Let Freedom Ring returned in full-force this year with the Nashville-based Cadie Calhoun Band performing in concert on the square. As music filled the high from Calhoun's high-octane performance, those in attendance also enjoyed watermelon, games, food, fellowship and more as they awaited the start of evening's highlight - the fireworks! And, as always, the show presented by Elba native Mike Holderfield did not disappoint. The graphic above shows Calhoun performing and the fireworks exploding as the main attractions of the 2021 Let Freedom Ring event. See More on Page 8.

News Brief:

A four-vehicle crash Wednesday, June 30, claimed the life of a Florida woman.

Barbara Joyce Spears, age 70, of Westville, Fla., was driving a 2006 Chevrolet Impala, which was stopped in traffic within a construction zone, at the time of the crash. Spears' Impala was struck from behind by a 2013 GMC Sierra driven by a juvenile from Alabama, which forced Spears' Impala into the rear end of a 2006 Chevrolet Silverado driven by Richard Stephen Cooks, age 30, of Elba. The Silverado was then forced into the rear end of a 2010 Cadillac Escalade driven by Richard Lee Byers, age 55, of Panama City, Fla.

With Ferrin Cox

"Liberty, when it begins to take root, is a plant of rapid growth." – George Washington, 1788

The U. S. Post Office historic peak of 787,538 employees in 2000 dropped to 495,941 on the payroll in 2020. That is a bit over a 37 percent drop from peak employment. We can probably attribute that to 'computers' doing lots of the sorting of mail. Of course when the mail goes astray the computer gets blamed for that as well. With this drastic drop in employees and their related salaries, it is hard to understand the continuing increase in postal fees, etc. We hear reports of reduced first class mail but predict that every rate increase is counterproductive because it further reduces first class mail volume. Then we see rural mail carriers leaving the post office in the morning with their vehicles crammed with parcels of merchandise postal patrons have ordered from mail order houses. Small towns like Elba only get one U. S. Postal delivery per day, but these parcel delivery firm's trucks are coming and going all day! It is far over our head, but we do wonder why those parcels are shipped by the commercial delivery services, but actually delivered by the U. S. Post Office?? Maybe some adjustment of this system would go a long way with solving the money and other problems of the U. S. Postal Service.

It is hard to wrap our arms around the disastrous high rise condo collapse in South Florida last week. Just think – people went to bed for a good night's sleep only to have their homes cave in around them with the vast majority being buried in the rubble and their bodies still not dug out. Then there is the other half of those in that high rise condo who survived without the collapse getting them but having to watch their condos demolished without them getting to salvage a single photograph, a change of clothes or other personal item for fear an additional collapse would catch them and cost them their lives. We also wonder if the survivors had (or could get) insurance coverage to cover such a disaster. One can only imagine the extreme jitters of thousands of residents of other high rise buildings, particularly those in the vicinity of this disaster, as they wonder if their building is the next to fall.

Politics are cranking up in Alabama for next year's elections. Several have announced as candidates for the Governor's office including incumbent Kay Ivey. Most experts are conceding the race to her but that has not stopped several folks from throwing their name in the hat. We have heard no formal announcement of anyone planning to run for the open Senate seat left by Jimmy Holley's decision not to seek re-election after over 40 years in political office. However the rumor mill is full of the names of potential candidates. About the only one you can be sure is NOT a candidate will be yours truly!

Several months ago we admitted right here in this column of our fear, from the very beginning, that as president, Donald Trump would put this country so far in debt it could never dig out. He faced some unusual conditions during his administration and yes . . . America went deeper into debt. Now the U. S. has changed the guard in D.C. and yes . . . America has gone even deeper in debt, with more spending projected to come. There has to be some way to solve this country's negative issues - and successfully - without throwing tons of money at them. Apparently the problem is to find these solutions and get enough Washington politicians on board to prove they work. But then the down side would probably be they couldn't go back home and brag "this is how much money I got for you!!!"

Cuzin Lou Lou could not help but beam with pride last week when she noticed new decorative banners going up around the downtown area of Yonder!

The new banners, in Lou Lou's opinion, are the absolute best ones the city folks have put on display so far. The designs on these new banners beam with patriotism in red, white and blue colors, along with the added note of "We Support Our Troops"!

Lou Lou is proud to say she is the daughter of an American hero as Papa served his country in the United States Army. It was a service Papa took seriously and served with honor.

There are plenty of folks all across this great nation that still love our country and support our troops. We just tend to make less noise on a daily basis than those wanting to create havoc.

Truth be told...that's the case for most anything. The trouble-makers always seem to be louder than the ones following the rules and doing the things necessary to keep the train on the track, moving forward.

Last Saturday night, however, it made Lou Lou smile from ear to ear to see so many people come out to Yonder's independence celebration event to show their support and love for country! On the 4th of July, Lou Lou and the Yonder gang attended a minor league baseball game, and as the singing of the Star-Spangled Banner concluded, the cheers from the crowd were the loudest Lou Lou had heard in years...it was a magical, give you goose-bumps kind of feeling!

There are those who say patriotism is dead in this country, but they are sorely mistaken! It is alive and well...you just need to look in the right places!

As for Lou Lou and the Yonder gang, they'll continue to show off that red, white and blue spirit, stand and place a hand over the heart each time the National Anthem is played and/or sang, and proudly yell, "God Bless America!"

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling and Go USA!

What is a Flag Detail, and What Does One Look Like? The United States flag plays a prominent role in military funerals. As such, it's important to have officers on hand who can not only ensure the fallen service member is properly honored but also see to it that the flag is handled with care and respect.

These officers are collectively known as the flag detail and may include a number of officers tasked with different activities. A couple of members of the detail will be responsible for handling the flag and folding it at the proper time. (The folds of the flag are rich in symbolic significance, and it's vitally important that this action is taken on with the requisite attention.) These flag folders will then furnish the flag to the deceased's next of kin.

There are other important roles included in the flag detail, including pallbearers - whose job is to make sure that the fallen service member's casket is transported respectfully and carefully.

In other words, the flag detail serves in both a symbolic role and a functional one. The members of the flag detail bring a lot of ceremonial significance to the military funeral service, but their actions are also necessary for keeping the events of the service moving forward.

As you consider the funeral arrangements for your deceased service member, you may have questions about how to arrange the proper flag detail, and what tasks you can expect them to perform during the service. Reaching out to the local VFW or American Legion can provide you with the answers you need. Alternatively, you can always ask your funeral home director for their insights on the matter.

"Christ set us free, so that we should remain free. Stand firm, then, and do not let yourself be fastened again to the yoke of slavery." - Galatians 5:1

245 years ago a document was forged and placed on the desk of the President of the Continental Congress. John Hancock lifted it up to scan the words on the parchment. "When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness..."

At that moment printing presses were preparing themselves to print broadsides throughout the night. The nation waited with bated breath. Hancock picked up his pen, and signed his name so large that he exclaimed King George II would not need to put on his glasses to read it. This moment represented a turning point; there would be no going back now. Thirteen British colonies had just declared their independence from the British Empire.

Over the past few days, we all have commemorated and celebrated this event. We have told our children and grandchildren of this first Independence Day in the life of our country, and what it means to be free. What is freedom? What is true freedom?

In primary school, I learned freedom basically is the ability to do whatever I want as long as it does not inhibit you for doing what you want. However, this is not a very good definition. The Declaration of Independence plainly states that freedom, for Americans, is no longer being under control of a tyrant, and indeed that liberty is something given to us by God.

Christ-centered people speak of liberty too. We employ language of freedom and slavery, and yet our slavery is not from an oppressive system or institution. We see all of humanity as being in slavery to sin and death; these are our tyrants.

Through the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, we are invited to overthrow these tyrants, and be freed to live in joyful obedience to God. The origin of the word "free" is the Germanic word frīe or "love" and it is base of the word "friend". Those who follow Christ focus both on the freedom from sin, but also the freedom to truly love. Freedom is not doing whatever we desire for Paul warns against this self-indulgent freedom. Instead, Paul instructs us to choose to use our freedom to love and serve one another.

As we celebrate Independence Day, I ask you to reflect upon if you are truly free and if you are how are you using that freedom to love God's good creation.

Symbolic Speech

I recently renewed my driver's license. This required taking the written test again. Before going to the Department of Motor Vehicles, I read the latest edition of the California Driver Handbook and noticed some changes. The handbook had quite a bit to say about how to avoid road rage incidents. No matter how bad you think other drivers are, the handbook warns against "speaking" to them by swerving, flashing your high beams, or making obscene gestures. That is, don't use actions as symbolic speech that might incite other drivers into even more aggressive behavior.

What we show by our speech, whether verbally or in actions that are a type of speech, reflects what is going on inside our hearts and minds. How often do you express wrath in ungodly behavior that can provoke others into one-upping your questionable actions? It's not just in heavy traffic that this question is relevant! - C.R.B.

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

There is something about fireworks that light up the eyes of youngsters of all ages, and that was certainly the case over the weekend as we went with our grandson Lawson to watch fireworks to celebrate the fourth. I know some of this 'oohs' and 'aahs' were for our sake, but he really enjoyed the big show and was all smiles when he left. Another memory that will last forever!

For what it is worth....

 Elba Tiger head coach Marc Sieving and I had a little laugh a few weeks back when I asked him if his run-happy Tigers would compete in any seven-on-seven competitions this summer. He admitted his team looked to run the ball first and foremost, but he took the Tigers to a seven-on-seven competition last week over in New Brockton and posted big wins over New Brockton and Northside Methodist. Coach Sieving refused to admit the Tigers had a big day throwing the ball, but said they did compete and did what it took to win the two games. The Elba JV posted a 1-1 record at the event and reportedly also looked pretty good in the 'pass only' competition. While I will admit the wins got me a little excited about the upcoming season, the fact the defense also put in a winning performance made me feel even better. Yep, football fever may hit Elba in just a matter of weeks.

 The Straughn Tigers may have to add a little green to their uniforms this season after adding a number of former Brantley players and coaches to the staff. Former Bulldog head coach Ashley Kilcrease will be the new head man for the Tigers on the gridiron, while former Bulldog head coach and Hall of Fame member David Lowery will head up the defense, and former Brantley quarterbacks Andrew Lowery and Jacob Free will both be walking the sidelines. Free had one year of eligibility left at Troy University and was expected to battle for playing time, but with his degree in his pocket decided to hang up his cleats and join the coaching ranks. Coach Lowery and Coach Kilcrease coached at Brantley for a combined total of 17 years and posted a combined record of 204-43, including an amazing record of 118-6 against region foes. Straughn already has a rich history in football, and with the addition of the new coaches from Brantley things can only get better.

 The big news from college football last week had little to do with commitments or coaching changes, and was instead centered around the new 'NIL' rules that were approved by the NCAA and will allow the players to cash in on their collegiate fame. The 'name, image, likeness' rule came about after a Supreme Court ruling, and college players are already reaping the benefits as agents and businesses come calling. Alabama's Bryce Young has already signed with an agent and has a marketing deal, while teammate Malachi Moore has signed with Milo Sweet Tea and a couple of other teammates have signed with gaming services. Auburn's Bo Nix is also a Milo's Sweet Tea drinker and hopes to cash in on his college success, while two Tigers have hooked up with an underwear brand and another also joined the gaming business. The new rules haven't been around long enough for anyone to really understand, and the big concern is that a gullible player could lose his eligibility due to a signing. My concern is that some players may soon be more concerned about their own financial success, and not the success of their teams.

 The new high school football season will kick off in just seven weeks, and as always there will be a lot of new coaches walking the sidelines. The biggest change locally probably came down at Opp, where former Alabama head coach Mike Dubose took the reins of the Bobcats. Coach Dubose was a former 'coach of the year' in the SEC during his years at Alabama and posted a 36-15 record during a four year stop in Luverne, but in his latest high school coaching stops went 0-10 at Northview and 3-7 at Prattville. Coach Dubose has yet to prove himself as a high school coach, but will no doubt draw a little extra concern from opposing coaches as they put in a game plan for the Bobcats. Other changes that will get notice from Elba fans will be at G.W. Long and Daleville. G.W. Long hired Brantley assistant David Watts to lead the Rebels, and while Watts struggled to post a 3-17 record in his only two years as a head coach at the high school ranks in Georgiana, he is considered a talented offensive coach and seems like a good fit with the Rebels. Daleville hired Will Garner to lead the Warhawks, and since he has never been a head football coach at any level, I guess time will tell about the hire. A recent change that got my attention was Ezell Powell resigning at Georgiana. Powell, reportedly the highest paid coach in the state in 1A circles, posted a 64-27 record in eight years with the Panthers, but posted a less than stellar 6-6 slate in the playoffs, and after posting a 9-11 mark the last two seasons, word was the former Auburn standout had lost a lot of his support. Another change that slipped under the radar was up at Beauregard, where former New Brockton head coach Justin Jones was hired as the new head coach. Jones kind of went under the radar in recent years after leaving the area, but has resurfaced and is back and in charge of a solid program. A couple of other new head coaches worth mentioning include Quinn Hambrite, at Charles Henderson; Luke Tucker, at Dale County; Don Moore, at Goshen; Rodney Dollar, at Headland; and, Eddie Brundidge, at Houston Academy.

 In closing.... I know our streets are in a mess due to work replacing water lines and the city has some other problems due to a lack of employees, but after attending Saturday night's fourth of July celebration on the square I am convinced we are still lucky to live in the best small town in the country. I may be wrong, but I can't believe there is another city our size that had anything close to what we had over the weekend. Hundreds of people like me and you sitting in lawn chairs around the courthouse, a parade of golf carts decorated in red, white and blue, a country music singer from Nashville putting on a free show to everyone in attendance, and of course Elba native Mike Holderfield putting on the best fireworks display anywhere around. It may be true this isn't the same small town we grew up in, but it is still Elba and is still a mighty good place to call home!!!!

State's newest community archery park is located at Lakepoint State Park

Alabama's newest community archery park held its grand opening on Thursday, June 24, 2021, at Lakepoint State Park, 104 Old Highway 165, in Eufaula, Alabama. The Lakepoint Community Archery Park is located near the park's campground and day use area. The public and media are invited to attend the grand opening ceremony.

The archery park will be open year-round during normal park hours for recreational shooting, competitive tournaments and outdoor educational programming. The facility features an eight-target adult range from 15 to 50 yards and a four-target youth range of 5 to 20 yards.

Use of the archery park is free for those under 16 years of age or over 65. Lakepoint entry fees still apply. Alabamians ages 16 to 64 must have a hunting license, Wildlife Management Area (WMA) license, or Wildlife Heritage license to use the range. For non-residents, an annual WMA license or non-resident hunting license is required. Licenses are available from various local retailers or online at outdooralabama.com.

Lakepoint joins several other community archery parks currently in operation throughout the state. These facilities are one component of the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources' (ADCNR) effort to increase awareness and participation in the life skill of archery. To find a community archery park nearest you, visit www.outdooralabama.com/activities/archery-parks.

The new archery park was made possible by the following agencies and organizations: Alabama State Parks, the Archery Trade Association, and ADCNR's Division of Wildlife and Freshwater Fisheries with funding through license sales and federally matched Pittman-Robertson Act funding.

For more information about the Lakepoint Community Archery Park, call the park office at (334) 687-8011. For more information about Lakepoint State Park, visit www.alapark.com/parks/lakepoint-state-park.

ELBA LADY TIGER VOLLEYBALL CAMP.... A large group of young volleyball enthusiasts were in attendance last week at the Elba Lady Tiger volleyball camp. The campers enjoyed two days of drills and lessons in the basics of the sport from Lady Tiger coaches and players.

Elba's Coach Sieving expresses optimism as Tigers continue summer football workouts

The Elba Tigers remain hard at work in preparation for the upcoming high school football season and head coach Marc Sieving continues to feel optimistic about his team after a solid showing at a seven-on-seven competition at New Brockton.

"We went to a seven-on-seven competition last week at New Brockton and played hard, gave good effort and showed that our conditioning work is paying off," said Coach Sieving. "Both the varsity and junior varsity teams competed against New Brockton and Northside Methodist, with the varsity winning both games and the JV winning one. The players were excited about the wins and getting to compete against someone else, and we as coaches were excited to get the games on tape so that we can evaluate the players. It is true a seven-on-seven game isn't like a real game since every play is a pass play. However, every play is competitive and the players on both teams want to win."

"Our offense is designed to run the football," added Sieving, "but even though we had to pass the ball on every down we proved we can be successful throwing the ball and have the players to put the ball in the air. Brayden Johnson is a young quarterback and doesn't have much varsity experience, but he threw the ball well at times and settled down as the games went on. We have some pretty good runners that are also pretty good receivers in Peyton McCart, Byron Burks, Kimdarius Hill, Chrystyle Caldwell, Alvin Henderson and JT Coleman, and they all caught the ball well at times. We have a couple of formations that we use in passing situations, and it was good to see us move the ball and get the ball into the endzone."

"The defense looked good," said Sieving, "and we got in a lot of work out of our zone defense against two very good passing teams. We had an interception on the very first play of the first game that got the players fired up, and all in all we had a solid performance against the spread formation. We made some mistakes and got burned a few times, but everything was good and the mistakes we made are the kind that can be fixed."

Coach Sieving stated the Tigers would return to New Brockton on July 15 for a multi-team seven-on-seven competition, while actual team practice will begin the first week of August, with a scrimmage to be held on August 7 at Miller Memorial Stadium, in downtown Elba.

"We have 44 players working this summer in grades nine through twelve," said Sieving, "and we have had very good attendance all summer. We didn't lose many players that were here in the spring, and summer workouts are very important toward the growth of the team. We have spent a lot of time in the weight room and on conditioning to be the best we can be, and have been working three hours a day, three days a week. We get outside an hour a day to work on football, and that is also very important because we are not yet set on every position and the backups at the positions. We will have to play a lot of guys on both offense and defense. So, it is vital to find a backup to get the starters some rest. It is a team sport and those players that are backups are very important to our success."

"The seventh and eighth graders will begin working three days a week later in the summer and we will introduce them to the weight room and the basics of football," added Sieving. "We don't have big numbers in those grades and hope that more folks will come out once we get them involved. We need solid numbers in every grade and certainly know it is important to teach the younger guys the game, and to get them in shape."

"We still have three weeks left in July and plan to keep working hard in everything we do," said the second year Tiger head coach. "We will continue to install our offense and defense, pound it in the weight room and work hard on conditioning. We have to make sure we are in the best condition possible and will be the best we can be when the season kicks off on August 20."

Elba celebrates "Let Freedom Ring" with music, fireworks and more!

Under the downtown Elba lights, those attending the Let Freedom Ring event last Saturday evening, July 3, set up lawn chairs and gathered on Factory Avenue to listen to entertainment by the Cadie Calhoun Band and await the start of the fireworks display.

Queens of Elba were introduced as the Let Freedom Ring event got underway last Saturday night. Pictured here is Miss Juneteenth Jasmine Magwood and Junior Miss City of Elba Zalie McKelvy.

Trace Grantham and Jay Wilson enjoyed participating in the golf cart parade last Saturday evening...the parade signifies the start of Let Freedom Ring in Elba each year.

Alabama Masons MW Grand Master Tommy Morrow, a member of the Elba Masonic Lodge, is shown cutting watermelon Saturday evening during the Let Freedom Ring event. The Elba Masonic Lodge gave away free watermelon chunks to those in attendance.

Taylor Day gave it her all as a participant of the watermelon eating contest, sponsored by the Elba Masonic Lodge as part of the Let Freedom Ring event. She shows off what's left of her piece of the juicy fruit after the contest concluded. The members of the Elba Masonic Lodge provided free watermelon to all who wanted it during Let Freedom Ring last Saturday night, July 3, in Elba.

Miss Elba Kate Hudson and Mini Miss Firecracker Brinley Coxwell are shown enjoying the entertainment of the Cadie Calhoun Band during Elba's Let Freedom Ring event. The Miss Firecracker Pageant was held Saturday morning in Elba in association with the Elba Farmers Market and Let Freedom Ring.

Elba Mayor Tom Maddox welcomes all to Elba last Saturday evening for the Let Freedom Ring event.

Fireworks exploding over the tops of the downtown Elba businesses was a beautiful sight. This view is from Factory Avenue on the square, which was the main hub for Saturday's events.

Above: The Cadie Calhoun Band, out of Nashville, Tennessee, provided entertainment during Elba's Let Freedom Ring event this year. Local sponsorships helped bring the Nashville artist to Elba to deliver a "free to the public" concert. Calhoun and her band gave a high-energy concert that was well received!

Right: This photo shows another angle of those attending the Let Freedom Ring event in Elba enjoying the fireworks brought to the community by the City of Elba, Elba Chamber of Commerce and other local business sponsors. The mastermind behind the fireworks each year is Elba native Mike Holderfield, and he again wowed the masses last Saturday night with his fireworks display!
